

Soph speaks on Red threat, wins contest

Charles Schuttrow, sophomore English-journalism major, won the first annual Fr. Rapp Speech contest with an address entitled "The Communist Threat to the Free World." The contest took place in the college auditorium on Jan. 18.

Robert Stith and Ronald Hemmelgarn, pre-theology majors, placed second and third respectively.

The new contest will be held each semester. It replaces the Conroy Speech Award contest which was discontinued last year. Mr. Ralph Cappuccilli, chairman of the speech department, explained that the contest is open to all students taking speech fundamentals and that the purpose of the award is to promote better public speaking at St. Joseph's and to interest more students in taking a speech minor.

The award was instituted by Fr. Ildephonse Rapp who was one of the early heads of the speech department at St. Joseph's and an early moderator of the Columbian Players.

The three winners each received an engraved trophy. In addition, the name of the first place winner will be engraved on a permanent plaque to be hung in the auditorium lobby.

Mr. Lyons, Dr. Barton awarded grants to continue studies

Two St. Joseph faculty members have received grants to continue study in their major field.

Daniel D. Lyons, instructor in philosophy, has been named as the recipient of a Danforth Teacher Study Grant for 1961-62.

Dr. Jay Barton, associate professor of biology, has been awarded a fellowship by the National Science Foundation to do research in Copenhagen, Denmark.

Mr. Lyons will use his grant, carrying a stipend of $2950 plus tuition and fees, to pursue the Ph.D. degree in philosophy at the University of Chicago. Lyons was one of some 70 college and university teachers receiving such grants for next year from the Danforth Foundation.

Recipients were chosen on the basis of "potential excellence as teachers, outstanding academic ability, personality congenial to the classroom, and integrity and character, including commitment and serious inquiry within the Christian tradition."

Kelly co-authors marketing text

A committee of selected college professors, including Mr. Paul E. Kelly, associate professor of marketing at St. Joseph's, recently published a college text entitled Principles of Marketing. Mr. Kelly's contribution to the work, published by Pitman Publishing Co. of New York, was in the area of consumer motivation and purchasing habits.

Mr. Kelly came to St. Joseph's in 1950. He is a member of the American Marketing association and the following honorary societies: Pi Gamma Mu, Phi Kappa, and Phi Alpha Theta.

Previous to his college teaching career, Mr. Kelly was associated with one of the country's largest flour and cereal manufacturers, where he held the post of supervisor of sales and marketing activities.

Mr. Kelly contributed to an earlier Pitman publication, Principles of Retailing, which was published in 1958 and revised in 1960.

A native of Cresco, Ia., Lyons received his B.A. degree from St. Thomas College in St. Paul, Minn. and his M.A. degree from the Dominican College at St. Thomas Aquinas in River Forest, Ill. He came to St. Joseph's in 1958.

Dr. Barton's research will be concerned with the functions of the cell nucleus and specifically with "the changes in composition and metabolic function of the nucleus during the cell-cycle."

He will leave with his wife and seven children next summer and will spend a year in Copenhagen at the Biological Institute of the Carlsberg Foundation.

Dr. Barton is one of approximately 300 teachers of science, mathematics and engineering who received the NFS's "Science Faculty Fellowships." The primary purpose of the awards is to "provide an opportunity for college and university science teachers to enhance their effectiveness as teachers."

This was the second NSF award granted to Dr. Barton in four years. In 1957 he won a $20,000 grant to carry on his investigation of the cell nucleus at St. Joseph's.

A native of Batavia, Ill., Dr. Barton received his A.B., M.A., and Ph.D. degree from the University of Missouri. He taught for five years at Columbia University before coming to St. Joseph's in 1955.

Dr. Jones to talk on US economy

Dr. Bryce Jones, chairman of the division of business and economics, will give the first lecture of this year's History Club Lecture Series in the cafeteria on Thursday, Feb. 16, at 7:30 p.m. The topic will concern the economic problems which will face America in the next few years.

Dr. Jones, an associate professor of economics, has been teaching at St. Joseph's since 1955. He earned his Master's Degree at St. Louis University in 1951 and four years later gained his Ph.D. from the same school.

67 students placed on fall Dean's honor list

Sixty-seven students have been placed on the Dean's List for the fall semester of the school year. These students have attained an index of 3.50 or better and are thus excused from the requirements of the regular cut system.

Seniors on the list are: Glenn R. Clausen (4.00), Thomas J. Schoenbaum (4.00), John M. Klawitter, Edward P. McGee, David A. Beran, Arthur J. Mueller, William T. Cormack, Kenneth L. Brand, Harry I. Creager, Martin J. Waters, Charles W. Henes, John R. Baumann, Raymond F. Regner, John M. Bartels, John C. Sychalski, James W. McCauley, Marilyn M. Whaley.

Sophomores are: Mrs. Ada L. Roberts (4.00), Francis W. Creel, William E. Gruszewski, Thomas E. Fletchall, Charles J. Schuttrow, Kenneth J. Wysoglad, Don M. Hoffman, Ronald L. Hemmelgarn, Ronald L. Bonato, David L. Cunningham, William L. Downard, Leonard R. Kroll, Elmer L. Paris, Gerald F. Snyder, John C. Bahione, James B. Crook, John T. McCarthy.

Freshmen are: William D. Seidensticker (4.00), Joseph A. Blasko, Leonard J. Brinkmoeller, Charles J. Kelley, Robert J. Kenney, Thomas A. Welk, Mary F. Faulkner, Severin G. Schurger, Arthur C. Vandenbrouche, Dietwald A. Gerstner, Kenneth R. Koculowski, Francis W. Oberliesen, Richard J. Andolsen, Samuel H. Rankin, Thomas A. Mattasits, Lawrence J. Beuret, Robert J. Blackwood, Thomas F. Helmsold, Eduardo G. Rivera, Stephen F. Schneider.

'Brain Washing' is Book of Month

Bain Washing, a Pyramid Publication written by Edward Hunter, has been selected as the February paperback Book of the Month.

The powerful book contains the stories of a few of the thousands of men whose minds were systematically and ruthlessly brain-washed by diabolical Red torture during the Korean conflict.

A panel discussion of Brain Washing will be held Wednesday, March first in the college cafeteria at 8:00 p.m. Free coffee will be served.

Copies of the Book of the Month are on sale in the college bookstore.

Mardi Gras to have New Orleans theme

With lent just around the corner, it becomes Mardi Gras time once again at St. Joseph's. The dance will be held next Saturday night, Feb. 11, in the Rec hall.

When thinking of the Mardi Gras season, everyone thinks of New Orleans. This year the Rec hall will be decorated in the style of a New Orleans speakeasy and called the Red Room.

Costumes for the dance are mandatory, and social chairman Dave Hoover said no one will be admitted to the dance without a costume.

Tickets are on sale now in the cafeteria for five dollars.

The theme of the dance will be the "Roaring Twenties," and music will be supplied by Bobby Christian and his orchestra. This will be the fourth appearance for the Christian orchestra at St. Joe's, having played here twice during the 1958-59 school year.

The Christian orchestra has had great success in the Chicago area and on many other midwest campuses.

New drinking rule discussed at student council meeting Monday

By NORM NETKO

"No mercy will be shown to those who are caught drinking on campus," warned Al Hanley, student council president, at the council meeting last Monday. "The penalty," he said, "is no longer '5 and 25' (five-day suspension and a 25-dollar fine) but automatic suspension." Hanley said Fr. Schaefer's patience is exhausted in the matter and that similar trouble at the Mardi Gras dance could cost us the prom.

A new freshman tutoring service consisting of four departments—English, history, mathematics, and economics (business)—will soon go into effect. Department heads are: Walter Johnson, English; Marty Waters, history; John Baumann, math; and Charles Henes, economics.

The student council will set the maximum fee to be charged, and the individual officers will make time and place arrangements for their own departments. Tutoring will also be available for sophomore accounting majors.

Bill Fortin, council secretary, remarked that many juniors and seniors cannot write a simple business letter without making grammatical errors and suggested that a new required English course be instated.

English 3 and 4, Bill Malley said, is supposed to teach a person how to write; unfortunately this is not true, and the faculty is aware of it. Mr. Flynn said that a former business writing course was dropped because of a shortage of teachers and added that the English department is still overworked. Provision might be made, however, for extra evening lectures.

A plea was made for hot water in Drexel so showers could be enjoyed. Since Drexel has its own independent heating system, there is no problem of piping water a long distance, as there is with Bennett hall, where showers are also at a premium.

Bill Moriarty offered a suggestion for speeding up the cafeteria line: move the coffee dispenser to a place outside the line, since people who stop for coffee and others returning for subsequent refills produce a bottleneck.

The Mardi Gras dance will be held on Feb. 11. Tickets are five dollars each. The freshman class dance will be held Feb. 13 at Holy Family Academy, Beaver-ville, Ill. These tickets were to go on sale Feb. 9.

The two different term paper style sheets used on campus, Fr. Gerlach's and MIA, are causing confusion. The council hopes that one clear method can be adopted.

The Student Directory, which contains the addresses of all the students and is therefore a keepsake, should be out Thursday, Hanley announced.

A detailed list of suggestions for the new Student Center, drawn up by Bill Fortin, was to be presented to Fr. Lefko, who will soon provide a blueprint of the building. Both documents will be posted in the Rec hall.

Babione chosen as honor group's prexy

The St. Joe chapter of Phi Eta Sigma elected John C. Babione chapter president in a special meeting Tuesday, Feb. 6. Babione succeeds Bill Kennedy as local head of the honor group; Kennedy has left school for a semester.

In other action, the members approved a list of 14 freshmen candidates as new members of Phi Eta Sigma. The new members will be initiated, and a banquet held in conjunction with Delta Epsilon Sigma, later this month.

Seniors suddenly discovering they have never learned to write

A number of St. Joseph's seniors are now discovering that they do not know how to write a simple business letter or an application for employment. They are now discovering that they are unable to construct a written request for information from a company or a graduate school.

These young men are encountering their first experience with the practicality of the so-called "impractical" liberal arts.

For just about the last 16 years of grammar school, high school and college, they have been told over and over that one of the most essential elements in their education is the acquiring of the ability to use the language, to express themselves clearly and accurately in English.

But the wisdom of this advice has not been appreciated until now that it is too late. It was a lot more interesting to study how railroads play a vital part in transportation of products, how to make "managerial decisions," how selling is involved in the marketing process, or how the procedures of budgeting apply to the businessman than it was to learn how to employ the English language in such a way as to assure the accurate communication of idea to paper to another mind.

The extreme practicality of the ability to communicate by means of the written word is becoming starkly apparent to the seniors who are now looking for jobs or graduate schools.

Neither the college nor the student is entirely to blame for this situation which finds the majority of the seniors lacking in a knowledge of the most basic rules of English usage.

The courses are offered here to those who really want to learn. English 3-4, which are basically writing courses, are required of every student who intends to graduate from St. Joseph's.

And yet, the question immediately presents itself: if every student has passed English 3-4, shouldn't he at least be capable of composing a simple, straight-forward business letter? Are the required courses failing to prepare the student?

No doubt, the courses which are offered could be improved. But this will be of no effect unless the student realizes the importance of such courses and makes a real attempt to learn how to write.

It has been suggested that the college offer a course in the correct method of writing business letters. This would be more than a waste of time. If you know how to write, you can write a business letter, and you cannot possibly teach a student how to write a business letter without first teaching him how to write.

The plight of this year's seniors should present fair warning to the underclassmen: learn how to use the language.

Dave Hoover's

Off the Cuff

They're off like a herd of YERTLES. That's the cry from the Rec hall this week as Dave King has discovered a new game. It takes quite a steady hand and for that reason Fr. Schaefer hasn't been able to master it. Brother Gerard claims it's as easy as balancing the Rec hall books.

Speaking of balancing acts, which prominent member of the faculty found his car on the Science hall steps during the semester break? What has happened to our faculty lately? Have they lost sight of those ideals with which we expect to build St. Joe's into one of the top schools in the nation? Have things become so bad that handcuffs have become standard equipment for academic deans? Are these displays of intellectual apathy typical of the faculties of American colleges and universities today?

George Wroebel is one student who is not following this trend, but is forging ahead to new intellectual frontiers. He has instituted a new course this semester, called Bar 21.

It is a three hour course but meets six days a week at Kanne's. Even though the requirements are quite high, George says that registration is heavy. Tom Dobson is even trying to get in on special appeal from the Academic Senate.

Kanne's egg sales have gone up suddenly since Tom Roemer turned 21. I wonder if there is any connection? And beer sales have gone up too since Bill Holland met up with Rod Pujio.

Some fellow students are taking up a collection to buy Bob Hadala a new coat, so he can send his sister's blue one back to her. Bob claims it is his coat, but no one take him seriously.

Strange sights on campus this week:

Mike Mettler's ears.

Mr. Marini and Mr. Koziol, not together.

Tiny Roos sleeping without his Teddy Bear.

Tarantino looking for work.

Coach Iofredo smiling.

Tom Thoma is back. Look out girls!

Bill Fischer writing letters.

There is a certain junior who is willing to rent his car to any unsuspecting freshman who is willing to take the risk. All he has to do is produce a driver's license and sign his life away.

Why is Walter Siodlarz applying for his teaching certificate from the state of Wisconsin? Could there be any special reason?

Found in the Rec hall: small piece of paper with the number BUTterfield 8-9999 scribbled on it. The owner is not advised to try to claim it.

That's all for this week, but remember there will be other issues, so be good at the Mardi Gras.

TV fan angered by Rec hall pseudo-picture-fixers

Dear Editor,

I was watching a television program in the Rec hall last Sunday night when I strolled one of our jovial Rec hall attendants. He decided the television set wasn't functioning properly and proceeded to "fix" it.

Well, needless to say, he really botched up the works, thus ruining the rest of this particularly interesting show for everyone present.

I wish the unqualified Rec hall personnel who don't know anything about adjusting a television set would keep their fat, piggy hands off.

Sincerely,
An ardent TV fan

Council critique

By MARTY WATERS

At this point, a first semester balance sheet may well be in order. It was an eventful semester, in some ways gratifying, in some ways disappointing. Growing pains seemed to be evident throughout the semester and it might be a good idea to take a look at them and see how they effected the council and the school in general.

The first "pains" on the list are physical. The student body has been growing steadily since 1952. This has, of course, presented problems all along the way and this year they have been manifested in several very concrete ways, such as the thrice weekly cafeteria riots which take place after 11 o'clock classes on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, the new rules governing intramural basketball, and the increased number of students living in town. These are only a few examples. I'm sure anyone who has been here for a year can think of even more.

The next "pains" are intellectual. The quality of both professors and students on this campus has improved noticeably in the brief time that I have been here, and it will continue to do so. This has produced many academic problems, but seldom were they insurmountable.

The problems encountered by this expansion of the college have been met to some degree by an expansion of the activities of the student council.

A student discipline committee, expansion of the responsibilities of the interhall representatives, a nascent student tutoring system, and expanded student council dues have all be introduced in the last four years. These have helped but they still haven't been able to solve all the problems, nor does anyone expect them to.

Specific problems which were not solved in a completely satisfactory way last semester and which indeed may never be completely solved pertain to mixers which were either overcrowded or undergirded. Student apathy concerning athletic events was also in evidence. The student trips were almost private this year but there are some obvious reasons for this which do not need to be explained.

On the other hand, it has been gratifying to see an increasing number of students who are culture conscious enough to ride all the way to Purdue University on a school bus to see a ballet. This is something that just didn't happen when I was a freshman.

From this very sketchy outline, it should be obvious that while St. Joseph's has growing pains which are often both embarrassing and inconvenient, it is growing, and I think that the most consistent steps are being taken in the most important directions.

Puma fans defend coach Joe Iofredo

Dear Editor,

We think it's a crying shame the way the student body has treated Joe Iofredo in the last few weeks. We recognize that both the football and basketball teams have had poor seasons. Maybe you (as the student body) feel you have a right to hang Joe in effigy, but we think you picked a poor time. After we beat Butler in football, which was really an achievement, you hanged Joe in effigy.

Now you hang him because we lost a close game in which we were heavy underdogs. Let's face it; Joe coached a hell of a good game. So why don't we quite letting our personal opinions enter into the picture, and let's give credit where credit is due. If you supported the team as much as you downgraded Joe, we might do a little better.

Sincerely,
Loyal Pumas of second floor

Dean's bouncing of booers draws fire

Dear Editor,

In a season where Lady Luck is not with our basketball team, it seems a shame that the luster of a Puma victory is removed or even tarnished. We are referring, of course, to Fr. Schaefer's expulsion of several students from last Saturday night's game with DePauw.

We feel that Father's actions were unwarranted and that he had little, if any, basis for action. It has gotten to a point where students are hesitant to yell at games for "fear" that the magic thumb of Fr. Schaefer will wave them out of the fieldhouse.

Booing has been a part of the American sports tradition a lot longer than Fr. Schaefer has been shepherd of our games. And if the referees are not doing their job, the spectators have every right to boo them. Doesn't Father realize this? We doubt very much if the referees or opposing players suffered any "psychological damage" as a result of the booing. But we do know that the St. Joe victory was "hurt" by Father's ridiculous action!

Thank you,
Joe Murray

Slow student objects to exam deadline

Dear Editor,

The object of a test or examination is to ascertain the knowledge an individual has of a certain subject. And it is an obvious fact that some individuals are slower than others when it comes to taking tests. But it seems that certain professors on campus are not aware of this.

For after the allotted time is up the professor immediately picks the tests up whether the student is finished or not. This seems to me very odd when the professor is trying to find out just how much the student knows. Admittedly there are some students who just waste time, but there are many others who work diligently in a very slow manner.

The latter are the ones who are hurt by these nonthinking professors. For they deprive the student of the right which he is supposed to have to put down what he actually might know.

I realize that a time limit is necessary for some professors to take advantage of it? Why can't they gauge their tests so that everyone has a chance to answer all the questions, or give the slower students more time. This has happened many time to me so I am not talking through my hat. And it has happened when a full grade was at stake. These same professors are considered to be "tough," but are they really?

Sincerely,
Slow Student

Pumas snap losing streak, beat DePauw 77-72

SJ to face Ball State; Valpo here on Tues.

By HUGH MARTINELLI

The victory hungry Valparaiso Crusaders invade the Puma fieldhouse Feb. 14. Coach Joe Iofredo's squad, fresh from an upset victory over DePauw, 77-72 in overtime, hopes to avenge their earlier 76-71 loss to the Crusaders. Valpo now holds a 4-11 season record with a 1-5 slate in ICC competition. Their only league win came against St. Joe. Last year the St. Joe squad fell before Valpo twice by scores of 75-64 and an 89-87 squeaker. The overall series record stands at 31-17, with Valpo on top.

Leading the Crusaders is stellar sophomore forward, 6-2 Chuck Kriston, who has been averaging 20 points per game and leads the ICC in field goal accuracy with a torrid .560 percentage.

They have another league leader in 5-10 Jim Zwiefel who leads the ICC in free throw percentage with .889 while averaging 17 points per game.

Fran Clements, captain and playmaker of the Valpo squad, along with Zwiefel gives Valpo two of the best guards in the conference. Other probable starters include 6-4 Jim Litchenberger, their center and leading rebounder, and sophomore Bob Schoon, a 5-10 jumping jack.

The Pumas travel to Ball State on Feb. 11, hoping to rebound from their earlier season loss to the Cardinals on the St. Joe court 86-74. In ICC competition the Ball Staters have a 2-5 record.

Junior Mike Readnour, 6-3 forward, leads the Cardinals in scoring and rebounding with averages of 14 points and 14 rebounds per game. Their center and second leading scorer is 6-5 Bob Crowe, who has an 11 point a game average and is pushing Jim Zweifel of Valpo for the ICC charity line honors with a red hot .881.

Other probable starters are Dick Oldham, 6-3 sophomore forward, and two sophomores at the back court spots: John Kunze and Dave Thurston or Howard Wilkinson, all of whom are averaging close to nine points per game.

Varsity keggers to visit Loyola

By CHARLES J. SCHUTTROW

St. Joseph's varsity bowlers, buttressed by three new team members, will visit Loyola of Chicago Feb. 12 for their sixth regular season match.

It will be the first match for the Pumas since they dropped a 7-4 decision to Notre Dame Jan. 7. The Irish are currently leading the Midwest Intercollegiate Bowling Conference. Conference members are: St. Joseph's, Notre Dame, Loyola, Valparaiso, Illinois, Institute of Technology, and DePaul.

Loyola blanked the Pumas 11-0 last Oct. 30 on the Puma alleys in the first conference match for each team. Father Boniface R. Dreiling, Puma bowling coach, contributed that defeat primarily to a weak Puma showing. It is the only shutout on the Pumas 2-3 season record. Fr. Dreiling didn't make a prediction for the Loyola match. He said intercollegiate bowling is difficult to predict because any team could beat anything if it has a good day.

The fourth-place Pumas, who

trail Notre Dame by 11 points, will complete their ten-game schedule by visiting IIT Mar. 5 and Valparaiso Mar. 19 before returning home to host DePaul Mar. 26 and Notre Dame April 16. All conference games are scheduled on Sundays.

"Although we do not have the experience, we do have the spirit, will, and ability to win," said sophomore Richard Hanson. "With a few breaks I think we can win the MIBC title."

The annual MIBC tournament will be held April 30 at DePaul. Each conference team will bowl three games. The team compiling the highest number of total pins will be the tourney champions.

The Pumas, who finished second in last year's tournament, will not bowl their three tourney games against another conference team. Each team competes literally "against itself."

This means that the regular season MIBC rules, whereby each bowling match consists of five games with two points going to the winner of each game and an extra point for the winning series, will be dropped during the tourney.

Although each team bowls 50 games during the regular season, a three-game hot streak April 31 could grant the cellar team the tourney title. According to tourney rules, no team, regardless of their regular season standing, will receive any privileges.

Hockey team organized, lose first game 9-5

By Y. J. THOELE

St. Joe's newly organized hockey team lost its opening game 9-5 Sunday afternoon at the Rainbow Arena in Chicago.

The team, organized just before semester break and aided by profits from the Rec hall pinball machines, has 10 members: juniors Tom Budnick and Steve Murphy; sophomores Joe Heimbuch, Tim Kennedy, Jim Mason, John Navigato, Ed Rubeck and Bob Sidock; and freshmen Ray Daoust and Gene Lattanzi.

They are members of a four team league which plays all its games at the Arena. The teams have no names.

In Sunday's game Daoust scored two goals, with Mason, Murphy and Lattanzi contributing the other three. Mason scored early in the game, giving St. Joe a 1-0 edge, and after two goals by the opposition, Lattanzi shot one into the net to close out the first period at 2-2.

The Joemen went scoreless in the second period while their opponents picked up four goals. Daoust scored with six minutes gone in the third period, but the Pumas' rivals made two more goals before Murphy scored with four minutes left in the period. Daoust scored two minutes later, but the opposition hit one more to end the game 9-5.

Overtime victory follows 68-54 loss to Evansville Aces

St. Joseph's Pumas picked up their first Indiana Collegiate Conference win of the season against the DePauw Tigers last Saturday night by handing them a 77-72 overtime loss in the St. Joe fieldhouse. DePauw had downed the Pumas at Greencastle last January, 103-84.

The win left St. Joe with an overall mark of 3-12 and a conference record of 1-8. The Pumas were defeated by Evansville last Thursday 68-54 in the St. Joe fieldhouse. The Big Red also dropped a rematch with Butler's Bulldogs in Indianapolis, 107-64, on Jan. 28.

Al Whitlow led the Puma scoring against DePauw with 23 points, and was followed by Jerry Patchman and Jim Crowley who had 16 and 15 respectively. Ron Holstein also hit in double figures for the Joemen, and led both teams in rebounding as he snagged 21 off the boards.

The Pumas shot a .397 percentage from the field, and DePauw .340.

In the overtime period St. Joe netted four of eight attempts from the field for a .500 mark, and the Tigers hit on three of 14 for a .230 percentage.

Both teams had trouble hitting in the first three minutes of the game, and only three points were scored, all on free throws. With 15 minutes remaining in the first period, the Tigers began to find the mark, and when the clock showed nine minutes to go, DePauw had pulled ahead of the Pumas 23-16. At the half the Tigers were still in command 43-39.

The opening of the second half signaled the beginning of a seesaw battle, with Whitlow, Crowley, and Bill Braunbeck pouring on the points in the crucial few minutes at the end of the game.

A free throw by Crowley was tipped-in by Whitlow with less than 1:30 remaining, but the basket was ruled illegal by the officials and counted neither as a free throw nor a field goal for the Pumas. Tiger guard Jim Zerface and a host of DePauw cagers then sank the basket to tie the game at 65-65 as the buzzer ended the regulation game.

The Pumas came on in the overtime to score eight points on field goals and four on free throws as Whitlow led the way with five points for the Pumas. DePauw was held to three field goals and one free throw as the Pumas annexed their first Indiana Collegiate Conference win of the 1960-61 season.

Evansville's Aces rode a closing stall into a 68-54 victory over the Pumas last Thursday to keep their conference title hopes alive.

The triumph boosted the Aces record in the ICC to 5-2, compared to Butler's league leading 6-0 mark.

Wrestlers lose matches to Lake Forest, Ball State

The St. Joseph's matmen absorbed two defeats over the weekend of Feb. 3-4. The first came from Lake Forest College on Friday, while on Saturday Ball State defeated the Pumas.

The St. Joe squad was beaten by Lake Forest College, Lake Forest, Ill., in a close match 20-15. Forced to forfeit the 123 lb. class, Joe Donnellan, a freshman, wrestled in an exhibition and was outpointed. George Foss's match at 130 lbs. was a draw, even though he held a one point advantage.

In collegiate wrestling, at the end of a match one of the men must hold a two point or more advantage. When there is no two point advantage, the time that each man dominated his opponent decides the winner. In Foss's match he had a score of 5-4 his favor, however the riding time of both Foss and the Lake Forest man were equal and the match was ruled a tie.

A team is given three points for a win and five points for a pin, while two points is given each team in the event of a tie match.

Mike Mettler defeated his man 7-3 at 137 lbs. and Jim Delaney pinned his man at 147 lbs.

Jim Crook was defeated 8-2 at 157 lbs. and Ed O'Hara was pinned at 167 lbs. John Keane was also pinned at 177 lbs. In the heavy-weight class, Vic Roos pinned his man.

Jim Delaney almost had his man pinned for a St. Joe victory but the Lake Forest grappler managed to outpoint Jim 4-0.

The Pumas are well on their way toward establishing the 1960-61 campaign as the most unsuccessful in St. Joe basketball history.

The Big Red would have to win at least four of the five remaining games in order to better the 1950-51 season record of 7-16, the previous low mark.

The sad situation was reflected in the statistics released by the ICC a week ago. St. Joe is not only last in the league standings, but also in team offense and team defense. The Pumas, however, were leading the conference in free throw percentage. Three of the Puma cagers, Ron Holstein, Jim Crowley, and Jerry Patchman, were among the top ten as far as free throw percentage goes. But free throws alone don't win ball games.

St. Joe probably will not win four more games, but look for them to come alive against Valpo next week. No season is a complete loss if the Crusaders are beaten.

This week we would like to feature two more Puma cagers, Jim Crowley and Jerry Patchman.

Crowley is in his second varsity season with St. Joe. The 5'9" guard from Oak Park, Ill., has won respect for his playmaking ability during these two years.

He not only handles the ball well, but also possesses a fine jump shot which he employs from the outside. If the situation presents itself, Jim can drive well, snaking his way through the maze of arms and legs.

Last year Jim was sixth man on the squad, but this year with both Williams and Koehler gone, full responsibility for the play making chores has fallen on him and Jim has responded well.

Graduated from Fenwick high school in Oak Park, he is an accounting major.

While at Fenwick Jim also played basketball and baseball and was a member of his high school student council. He was also a star shortstop on the baseball team last year and he will probably be at that post again this spring.

Jerry Patchman, a business administration major from Dyer, Ind., is one of the best sophomore prospects to come along within the past few years. Jerry is 100 percent improved over last year when he played freshman ball.

Jerry has all the qualifications of an excellent ball player. He is big, 6'5", has agility, and has a variety of good shots. Although he is tall, Jerry is no "stringbean" as he tips the scales at a healthy 205 pounds, every ounce of which is helpful in rebounding. If he keeps improving at the rate he has been the Pumas may be able to come back next year.

Jerry played basketball for Dyer Central high school and in his senior year he captained his team and also won all-conference honors, being selected to the Calumet Conference All-Star team in 1959.

In his final year of high school Jerry also was student council president and secretary of the letterman's club

Jerry works as hard in the classroom as he does on the hard courts as evidenced by his Dean's List status last year.

Bob Ramesh to represent SJ in king contest

Bob Ramesh, a senior, has been selected as St. Joseph's candidate for king of the College of St. Francis Mardi Gras celebration. Each year the Joliet college conducts the affair which is highlighted by carnival booths where prizes are won and by dancing which lasts until midnight.

A queen is chosen from the St. Francis student body and a king is selected from St. Joseph's, St. Procopius, or St. Lewis. The king is elected on the basis of a vote whereby each candidate is awarded one vote for each penny he collects from the students at his college. The money which is raised is used to help the St. Francis student council.

Dave Hoover, St. Joe's social chairman, selected Ramesh to represent St. Joe in the contest.

Ramesh has selected a campaign manager from each class to aid him in raising contributions. Mike Holler, freshman, Tom Webster, sophomore, Jack Lulewitz, junior, and Denny Biggerstaff, senior will assist Ramesh in soliciting for the contest.

Joe squad wrestled Ball State at Muncie and was downed 33-5. The only points for St. Joe came when Ball State forfeited in the 137 lb. class. All the rest of the St. Joe grapplers were pinned except Jim Delaney who was out-pointed 4-0.

On Feb. 11 the St. Joe team challenges a tough DePauw squad at Greencastle. Next they will wrestle Valparaiso on Feb. 14 at home in their second meeting of the season.

In the first meet, St. Joe was defeated 27-5. However, the added experience that the St. Joe squad has gained throughout the season should prove an added factor in the second meet.

Dr. Morell named finance officer of select organization

Dr. R. W. Morell, chairman of the department of business administration at St. Joseph's, has been named finance officer of the select Academy of Management—the leading national academic association in the management field. The objectives of the academy are threefold: (1) To foster a management philosophy designed to gain an industrial society's economic and social objectives more economically and effectively; (2) To make executive leadership more aware of the need for sound, scientific solution of managerial problems; (3) To foster closer acquaintance and co-operation among those interested in developing a philosophy and science of management.

Admission to officership in the academy is by invitation or election by the members. Admission to membership in the academy is based upon advancing the theory or philosophy of management in published form, or by holding the professorial rank and teaching or researching at a college or university.

fense, the Aces put the ball into a deep freeze with 10 minutes remaining to protect a 55-51 lead.

St. Joe was reluctant to leave the zone and also obliged the Aces by throwing the ball away five straight times when it did get possession. This allowed the Aces to swell their four point lead to 14 by the time the buzzer sounded.

In recking the Pumas 107-64, the Bulldogs set a new fieldhouse scoring record surpassing the previous mark of 101 points counted by Butler against Evansville in 1958.

Butler set the record by sinking 49 percent of their shots—40 of 81. Reserves did the record tying, breaking, and setting as Coach Tony Hinkle cleared his bench against the Pumas.
